Surrender Of Government
Island Stronghold, Min-

Today

(International News Service)
Despite a "death rather than surrender" proclamation by government General Jose Mijia, end of the Spanish civil war within a few days with recognition of the Insurgent regime by France and Britain appeared today to be inevitable as Minorca, government island stronghold, indicated its surrender. Developments:

VALENCIA—Repudiating reports of willingness to end resistance, General Mijia declared his fighters preferred death to giving up the struggle.

LE PERthus—General Francisco Franco's troops pushed retreating government forces before them to reach the Franco-Spanish border early this afternoon.

PERPIGNAN—Victoriously advancing Insurgents were expected to sweep the Franco-Spanish frontier. (Continued On Page Two)

With the support that is being ac-there is justification for the belief that a lot of excellent results will be accomplished by the new organization, and that a notable impetus will be given to development in New Castle.

are to be prevented.

World Disarmament Conference Is Remote

By ROBERT G. NIXON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The idea that a summons by President Roosevelt of a general world disarmament conference would provide a magic panacea for the manifold troubles of Europe and Asia met slight encouragement in responsible Washington quarters today.

It was stated unequivocally that such a conference at this time, or in the foreseeable future, would be fore-doomed to failure.

That President Roosevelt, as definitely as he has asserted America's stand for peace, would assume the responsibility for certain failure in calling a conference of all world leaders together in such a conference, as suggested in certain congressional quarters, was considered highly unlikely by his closest advisers.

U. S. Not To Enter Controversy

Of equally importance was a declaration that the United States would not participate in any conference called in Europe for a general appeasement of the differences between Germany and Italy on one side and Great Britain and France on the other, that have kept the old and new worlds in a constant state of jitters for several years.

Such a conference was envisioned as a possibility of the future by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain before the British parliament yes-

Estimate Loss Of $300,000
In Blaze In Business
Section Today

THREE-HOUR BATTLE
WAGED BY FIREMEN

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Feb. 9.—Fire of an undetermined origin swept through two business blocks in the center of this city early today doing damage estimated at $300,000.

Five shops were damaged and numerous adjacent business places were endangered until the fire was brought under control after a three-hour battle. All fire fighting equipment available in Erie answered the governor to complete his budget.

The new relief appropriation will bring to $34,000,000 the amount appropriated this session for emergency relief needs, the money being transferred from special state funds.

Firemen Handicapped Both business blocks were four stories high.

Damage to the upper stories, housing offices was confined largely to smoke.

The fire was believed to have started in the basement of the Belmont building, and spread rapidly after a natural gas line was ignited.

Cold weather, plus icy hose and ladders, handicapped firemen as they fought the blaze.

The electric light wires were removed during the fire because it was feared the lives of spectators might be endangered.

Stores damaged by the blaze were the Liggett Drug Store, the Belmont Women's store, Adeline shop, Papandrews shoe shine parlor and the Kramer Fur store.

Adolph Green And Mrs. Ken-

At Hazelcroft And Albert

When automobiles they operated collided at Hazelcroft avenue and Albert street at 2:40 p.m. Wednesday, Adolph Green, local banker and Mrs. Kenneth Brown, 206 East Sheridan avenue, were injured.

The former is in the New Castle hospital suffering from a laceration of the scalp and three fractured ribs on his left side, and Mrs. Brown is in the Jameson Memorial hospital with a broken collar-bone.

According to reports collected following the accident, Mr. Green was driving west in Hazelcroft avenue, and Mrs. Brown was driving north in Albert street when the collision occurred.

The car driven by Mrs. Brown was overturned, it was reported.

John A. Taylor, John A. Butler and A. L. Thayer were occupants of the banker's car when the crash occurred, but escaped injury.

Breach Between President And Senator Glass Widens

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The breach between President Roosevelt and Senator Carter Glass (D) of Virginia, was greatly widened today by the Virginian's blunt accusation that the president sought to "purge" him and his colleague, Senator Harry F. Byrd, from the senate.

In a blistering statement, the 81-year-old Glass, an old-line Democrat, denied the president's charge that he and Byrd blocked confirmation of a Virginia judge for political purposes.

He also denied any effort to interfere with administration patronage when he, along with Byrd, objected to confirmation of Judge Floyd Roberts for the federal court for the western district of Virginia.

Declaring that he and Byrd proposed appointees "incomparably superior" to Roberts, whose nomination was rejected by the senate by a vote of 72 to 9, Glass said "it is to be deplored that they should have been rejected by the appointive power merely through a desire to purge the junior senator (Byrd) next year and the senior senator of Virginia later, should I live longer than the intriguers hope."

Glass' statement was occasioned by the president's letter to Roberts in which he accused the senators from Virginia of dictating the vote to the senate. Glass and Byrd said the appointment was "personally obnoxious" to them and asked their colleagues to vote against confirmation for that reason. They accused the president of setting up Gov.
James H. Price, of Virginia, as chief patronage dispenser, and said they were not extended due consideration regarding the appointment.

First Campaign
Reports Presented
Wednesday Night

Firm Financial Foundation
For Greater New Castle Association Is Provided

REPORTS REPRESENT
433 SUBSCRIPTIONS

Campaign Is Being Continued; Leaders In Drive Are Enthused At Progress

Firm financial foundation
for the Greater New Castle Association was laid last night when the determined, hard-working members hip campaign teams of the new civic organization reported $20,102 already pledged at their first report session, in The Castleton.

And history, everyone felt, was written when the $20,102 was announced, for it meant very definitely that the Greater New Castle movement would become a permanent fixture in the affairs of New Castle and of Lawrence county.

Cheers echoed through the hotel ballroom as General Chairman Louis B. Round gave out the figure which pronounced the solicitation a success. The total represented 433
subscriptions.

Over $3,000 In Cash Over $3,000 of the total was in cash.

Close to 75 team workers attended the first report rally and agreed to gather again in the hotel for a second report on Tuesday evening, February 14.

Presiding last night was General Chairman Round. Norman E. Clark, president of the new association, thanked the teams for their splendid co-operation to date, and William A. Francis, a director of the association, challenged the group to "keep up their fine work."

The campaign is by no means over. The solicitation was continuing today. Teams pushed forward their work in every section of the city.

Secretary L. J. Lewis, secretary of the association and director for the campaign, said a check of the pledges showed clubs, churches, property owners, farm residents, trade groups, professional organizations and "just plain citizens" subscribed the pledges that went to form the $20,102 tabulated last night.

And the campaign to raise the community fund is being directed

Appropriation Is

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—With-

$100,000 to finance the Dies committee's investigation into un-Ameri-

The action came after both Dem-expressed hope that the commit-alien "isms" legislation during this session of congress.

Amendment To U. S. Constitution Needed For Tax On Salaries

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Only an amendment to the constitution—not legislation by congress—can remove tax immunity from federal and state salaries and public bonds, a confidential report to the senate disclosed today.

The report, prepared by the staff of experts of the joint congressional committee on internal revenue, was submitted to a committee in the upper branch of congress which began consideration of legislation to subject government salaries and securities to taxation.

Legislation to end all tax immunity was proposed to congress in a special message by President Roosevelt who, with others in his administration, expressed the opinion that only action by congress would be required.

The report to the senate came as the house moved rapidly toward passage of a bill to accomplish the president's proposal.

This measure, sponsored by Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee, would provide reciprocal taxation of all public employees and thus pave the way for a test case on its constitutionality in the supreme court.

Acting upon a suggestion by Mayor Charles E. McGrath, colleagues in council meeting held in the municipal building this morning, instructed City Engineer Glenn R. Throop to provide the body with statistics concerning a proposed community pool in which to swim.

In presenting the suggestion Mayor McGrath said a petition had been presented some time ago to council and the body should have some information regarding a proposed pool or several pools. "It is a worthwhile proposition and should receive consideration," he added.

Councilman J. Leon Fink inquired of Councilman Joseph D. Alexander relative to the park commission's plans for Cascade Park this year.

Alexander said he had received no report as yet. However, he declared the belief that persons in quest of a community pool in which to bathe should first approach the park commissioners.

The city engineer will furnish estimates of cost and other information regarding such to council soon, it was indicated.

British Freighter Feared Lost At Sea

Rescue Ship Reaches Scene

No Trace Of Boat Which Sent Out S.O.S. Is Found
Says Radio Report

STEAMER CARRIED
CREW OF 37 MEN

(International News Service)

CHATHAM, Mass., Feb. 9.—Ten hours after the last feeble radio distress call was heard from the foundering British Freighter Maria de Larrinaga in mid-ocean, the Dutch Steamer Veendam arrived at the position today but found no trace of the ship, according to a radio message picked up by the R.C.A. Chatham radio station.

Fears were felt that the freighter, with a hole stove in her No. 1 hatch from a terrific gale, may have gone to the bottom, forcing her 37 crew members to take to lifeboats in mountainous seas.

Search Fails

The Veendam, bearing 500 passengers started a wide search about the last position given by the Maria de Larrinaga, 1120 miles east of Cape Cod.

Mysterious silence clamped down around a second rescue vessel, the Steamer Clintonia which at 9:30 last night radioed she had arrived within 32 miles of the freighter's position and was forced to heave to because of heavy seas. No further word was heard from the Clintonia up to now.

Other vessels converging on the spot and expected to arrive within a few hours were the S. S. Ireland, the American Steamer Scanmail and the British Steamer Aurora.

FRIENDLY GROUP

Members of the Friendly Group met at the home of Mrs. Helen Lash, 311 Green street, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

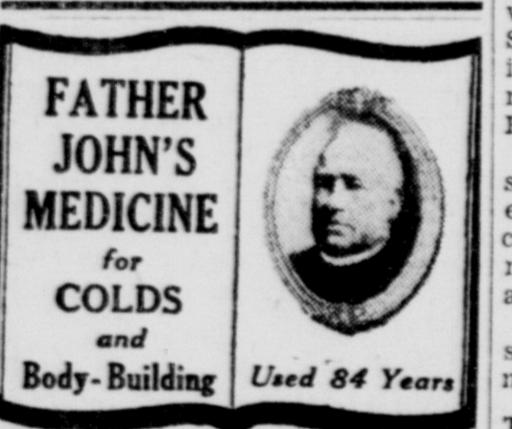

New members were initiated. Various contests were played, with the following receiving prizes: Mrs. Mable Farrow, Mrs. Ella Mae Rogers, Mrs. Irene Ellis, Mrs. Grace Walker and Mrs. Helen Lash.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Irene Ellis and Ethel Rankin.

In two weeks the group will meet at the home of Mrs. Helen Miller, corner of West Falls and Green street.

esterday. But Chamberlain pointedly was thought of on Britain's part there must be a general reconciliation of the Nazi and fascist philosophies toward pursuit of peaceful ways, and that Europe's problems for some time to come must be resolved at once.

Moral Encouragement

The most authoritative opinion in Washington is that while the United States would give every possible moral encouragement to a settlement of the trying European problems along equitable lines, through peaceful discussion without threat of force, it could not actively enter the discussions.

It was pointed out that this country did not enter the Munich conference, and would not enter a future one, for to do so would bring it into the whirlpool of European entanglements which it has sought to avoid since the post-war period.

Regarding the world disarmament conference suggestion, Secretary of State Cordell Hull said rather ruefully that the time is not opportune. As he put it, "Mich 'Spade work' must yet be done before an arms limitation or disarmament conference could hope to achieve success.

Hull stressed this government's continued, oft repeated advocacy of a downward scaling of armaments, but he emphasized that to achieve disarmament there must be a unanimous and sincere desire on the part of all major powers to disarm equitably.

At present, of the major powers, only those showing any sincerity for disarmament and guarantees of each appear to be the United States, Britain and France, while Germany, Italy and Japan pursue a course of conquest, and Russia maintains silence.

Room For All At This Table!

Mr. Indifferent Citizen:

Mr. Greater New Castle Association:

Mr. I. C.

Mr. G. N. C. A.

The trouble with most of these "drives" is that they only benefit a selected few . . . perhaps one individual . . . perhaps one small group.

You are wrong on that count. There is nothing individual about our group . . . nothing individual about our ideals.

Sure . . . but a selective few will be at the head . . . and they will dictate the action to the rest.

You are still wrong. If you don't believe me . . . then study the structure chart of the organization. Note how every type of business . . . every association . . . every organized group in the county has an equal place in the organization.

Then go further . . . consider the ideals of the association. See how its aims and purposes are for the good of the entire community.

It will still boil down to a few individuals who will run things to suit themselves.

If it does, then it will fail. This is not the time . . . nor the place . . . nor the occasion to assume the attitude of . . . "let Jack do it."

Co-operation is the keystone of the entire organization. Our association will be represented by every walk of life. The problems that confront us will be those that exist for the community as a whole. We will borrow rich experiences from our many different types . . . work together . . . plan together . . . and succeed together.

This association will succeed in the same measure as it is supported. New Castle needs such an active group. The only way to get it . . . the only way to insure the success of that group is for each individual to assume his share of the responsibility.

What is my responsibility to this movement? Join the Greater New Castle Association. Give it your physical and financial support. Stop knocking New Castle and start boosting. It's your city, your future and your responsibility!

Mr. I. C.

Mr. G. N. C. A.

McGrath, Burgess and Mrs. William McGlinchy, Ellwood City, and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob F. Rentz. Several prominent state officials will also be present.

CREDIT FOR NEWLYWEDS

MEMBER of the Ohio legislature last week introduced a bill which if enacted would authorize the state to lend $1,500 to each couple who marry.

To many persons that probably will sound highly inviting, in the belief the measure would mean they could start married life "with money in their pockets." To others who have had more first-hand experience with life's realities, however, it probably will not be such an entrancing proposal, for they will realize it would mean starting married life "$1,500 in debt."

To extend credit to a person is to impose debt upon him.

Average young married couples normally are offered by merchants and businessmen all the credit they can bear, since credit is debt. But private credit of this kind is shut off by the merchant or businessman when he learns, through information provided by credit bureaus, that the individual has contracted all the debt his income justifies.

When credit is limited to the ability of the individual to pay, that person is being helped to keep his head above the bitter waters of insolvency.

When credit is extended foolishly, the individual is encouraged along the road to bankruptcy.

There are enough stumbling blocks in the road to success and happiness in married life without adding excessive debt to the hazards.

Thousands of young couples have married during the depression years, and by thrift and economy have made their way, finding a surprising measure of satisfaction and happiness in so doing. They have learned fundamentally sound principles, and have come to realize the fallacy of debt and extravagance and waste, whether on the part of individuals or on the part of government.

Now it is proposed to urge upon future newlyweds the spendthrift practices which threaten a national catastrophe.

THE GREAT EDISON

February 11 will be the ninety-second anniversary of the birth of Thomas A. Edison, America's greatest inventor. It has been said, and with truth, that had Edison invented only the electric light, he would be the greatest inventor in all history.

But Edison had thousands of inventions to his credit. All contribute to the mechanization of life as we now know it. Without Edison's contribution, the machine age would not be what it is. His life spanned the golden age of American expansion and development, and his brain speeded the conquest of a continent.

Edison's birthday more than some others that are thus observed deserves to become a national holiday.

ODD LICENSE CRAZE

There's a good story in the Nation's Business this month which tells how in a certain state in the east, motorists went to odd lengths to obtain distinctive numbers for their automobiles. A former employee of the state's motor vehicle department provides the revelation. For instance, a certain politician insisted on 123,456 for his car.

An undertaker carried "U2" for several years, until the morbid suggestion so palled on his friends that he gave it up. A breeder of hunting dogs rated "K9," and a filling station operator boasted "GIL." One young woman employed in the capital labelled her bus "Me2." A political retainer of a high official wanted "UH," signifying "Understanding Heart," for his affinity. The licensing bureau couldn't accommodate him there, but they were able to substitute "GH," for "Good Heart." Then there was a bachelor girl who without asking for it drew "IAM 42." She came back several weeks later and requested a new plate; the razzing had been too much for her.

A change in administration stopped the fun, but not before it had cost the state many, many dollars.

A PIONEER IN SPORTS PROMOTION

When college football players and amateur tennis stars decide to cash in on their athletic talents and turn professional nowadays the public sees nothing startling or condemnatory in their actions. The latest tennis champion to enter pro ranks, Donald Budge, was even given a hearty send-off by officials of the U. S. L. T. A.

Conditions were decidedly different back in the days when C. C. Pyle, who died the other day in Los Angeles, began his colorful career of sports promotion. Professional baseball and boxing were taken as a matter of course, but professional football and tennis were still regarded with raised eyebrows. When Pyle showed Red Grange how to make profits from his hip-weaving on the gridiron, howls of protest were heard on all sides. When he induced Suzanne Lenglen and Vince Richards to play for filthy lucre, the frost in the sanctified circle of amateur tennis could have kept one in highball ice for weeks.

Mr. Pyle was not disturbed by such tumult. It merely gave his ventures extra zest and publicity. Red Grange jammed the ball parks with thousands upon thousands who had never seen professional football before and gave the game an impetus that has never been lost. The first Pyle tennis tour was the forerunner of pro tennis contests that have since become regular attractions, the latest being the Budge-Vines tour.

The great "Cash and Carry" promoted many other enterprises, also, good, bad and indifferent; money-making and money-losing; some of them, like his "bunion derby," out-and-out sideshow stuff. He lost out in both pro football and pro tennis, but these two fast-moving sports owe to this genial and impetuous character a great debt. He showed the way when the going was tough.

Blessed are the poor. They needn't hide their pocketbooks when somebody praises them.

But if we ever get a perfect system, we won't know it unless we have perfect people to run it.

With a marked stiffening of backbone noted among senators who oppose foreign entanglements, Britain's rulers may yet cancel their proposed trip to the U. S. But they won't apply the money they save on the war debt.

Guest, Other Features.The Parent Problem
By Gary C. Myers, Ph. D.

ANNOYING NICKNAMES

Some nicknames grow out of close comradeship. Of such a name many a person is proud. Some parents, indeed, who are good pals of their children address them by nicknames.

For the child who likes his nickname, its use by any one is wholesome, as a rule. But when it annoys him, harm is done.

Usually the nickname which vexes its owner most and does most harm to his personality is the name which describes some rather undesirable trait, or some trait which has been ridiculed, such as Half Pint, Red, Skinny, Tub, Squint. Adolescent children are especially sensitive about such names.

Suppose your child is made unhappy over his nickname. You, of course, never will use it, and you will persuade the other members of the family to address him only by his proper name. You may be able to enter into the confidence of his leading comrades so as to win them to your practice, and they, in turn, may convert others among this sufferer's friends.

Strategy With Comrades

In the meanwhile, provided you and the child are confidential with each other, you can show him how it will be to his advantage not to let other children know he is annoyed by the nickname; that, indeed, he can do most to bring it into disuse if he will refer to himself among his comrades by this name. Then they probably will think him such a good sport as to choose eventually to drop the nickname.

Of course, if he can so control himself as to rise above being annoyed by any nickname whatsoever, if he can so manage himself as not to let any one know that he cares what they call him, he will actually free himself from such annoyance by and by. Any child who thus lifts himself above a nuisance has acquired a great deal by way of character development.

Whether our children have unwelcomed nicknames or not, we want them to desist from calling other children by nicknames which annoy them. We want not only to protect the feelings of our children, but we also wish to have them learn to protect the feelings of others.

The World

THE "FOOT SOLDIER"

There is a lot of talk now days among military men or near-military men of the exalted position of the airplane as an engine of war.

Now the airplane, like the swift destroyer of the sea, is a very necessary adjunct with which to wage war, either defensive or offensive, but it is true today, as it was yesterday and as it will be forever, that all wars have been won in the mud by the foot soldier. The foot soldier is the last remnant of offensive and defensive forces.

A nation cannot live at sea; it cannot live in the air. It lives on the ground. It is the foot soldier that occupies the ground; that occupies the cities and wins the war.

This nation is not drilling many foot soldiers, but it has a great opportunity, irrespective of whether or not it ever attempts a policy of universal military training, in the CCC camps—one of the New Deal's schemes for alleviating non-employment. The act establishing these camps expressly forbids them from being placed under rigid military discipline, although they are placed in charge of officers of the United States army, mainly reserve officers for we have not many officers at liberty in the "regular establishment"—so small is our army of foot soldiers.

Just now they are arguing in the house of representatives concerning this and some representative has suggested that these camps be under military discipline every other Thursday or something of that kind; maybe three days a week.

Well, this may be an opening wedge and perhaps we will get down to brass tacks and try to educate an army of foot soldiers, for unless we have such an army, it does not make any difference how many airplanes or how many warships we have, we are far from having an adequate defensive force.

This nation as a republic, has no designs upon the territories or peoples of other nations.

TREES IN WINTER

Trees in winter seem to wear White with such a gracious air That I cannot truly know Which is better, leaf or snow.

Often in the spring I think Trees in blossom, red and pink, At their loveliest appear Than at any time of year.

Sometimes resting in the shade Which a friendly tree has made Very positive as I Trees are friendliest in July.

When in autumn I behold Trees in scarlet dressed and gold I am certain that in fall Trees are loveliest of all.

But in winter, since they wear White with such a gracious air I confess I do not know Which is better, leaf or snow.

In other words, our democracy will manage everything and every body and thus prove itself better than systems that manage everything.

Now that Columbia University is offering a course in fishing, one excuse for playing hooky from school has gone by the board.

Americanism: Boasting that the automobile saves us a lot of time; feeling bored and dissatisfied because we have so much time to kill.

The sad truth, which followers never see, is that a change of systems doesn't change the nature of people who lean on somebody else.

Hitler must be slowing up. Der Feuerhund is ordered military bands to play "Deutschland Uber Alles" the national hymn and Savage for $25. You must think I am a high priced man. You are too liberal with your money. Fifteen dollars is enough for the job. I send you a receipt for $15 and return to you a $10 bill." If only more lawyers could be like Lincoln.

Yet if Junior could keep a private business going only by borrowing money from Dad every year, people would call him a failure.

The Democrats won't mind losing in 1940. By that time it will be fun to watch somebody else try to straighten out the mess.

Correct this sentence: "Bill didn't want children," said she, "but I was determined to have at least eight babies."

As we understand the experts, the Spanish war has proved that planes can't win a war, and England can't risk war because she hasn't enough planes.

It is stated that rail and bus fares will be down in New York for the World's Fair, but indications are that a sandwich will cost about as much as the Empire State building.

SHAMEFUL Sweet Thing—disgusted: My boy friend has cold feet.

Yet old-timers can remember when boys rejoiced to be twenty-one because they could get out and be independent like a man.

A North Hill mother was treating her small daughter to her first soda. "How do you like it, dear?" she inquired.

"It tastes just like your foot was," was the reply.

If he loses faith in his religion when he has had bad luck, his religion was only a lip service given in the hope of getting good luck.

Still, when men had stone tools they probably said: "Now there is nothing left to do or learn."

Aviation Talk Is Hysterical
Navy Boosters Not In Accord
Army Men Want Ground Strength

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9—

Some first class judges of Uncle Sam's western hemispheric defensive problem, as the subject becomes a more and more important issue on Capitol Hill, see that the aviation angle of the situation is being over-emphasized from the new world's standpoint.

Chairman David I. Walsh and Carl Vinson, respectively of the senate's and the representatives' naval affairs committees, of course are congress' leading boosters for increased Yankee sea power.

They do not under-estimate the vital necessity of a formidable air arm to supplement Uncle Sam's fighting fleet's efficiency.

At the same time, the bulk of the advice they get from professionals is to the effect that surface strength afloat should be our first consideration.

Army men ditto, in their suggestions to Chairman Morris Sheppard and Andrew J. May, respectively of the senate's and representatives' military committees. Not that the army crowd, either, speaks of aviation otherwise than as indispensable; still, it rates groundings as the main thing insofar as this country is concerned.

True navy and army alike will be glad of all they can get afloat, but they rate the heavens as secondary to oceans and terra firma for American military purposes.

I do not mean to say that there are not flying enthusiasts who contend that surface fleets and troops are obsolete, but they're in a minority.

MOST of this has come from the extreme Left Wing New Dealers, and there seems to be a concerted effort among them to build Mr. Murphy up into a sort of glamorous Sir Galahad in whom is embodied almost superhuman virtue. It may be unfair to say that the Attorney General is in cooperation in this, but it is certainly true to say that it does not offend him and that the sort of publicity which has emanated from him recently lends itself to the general idea. He is going to "clean up" the courts; he had raised hopes in the meantime.

The Carbon Limestone Company, of Hillsboro, has the honor of being the first industrial organization in Lawrence County to sponsor a Boy Scout Troop. For some time, the officials of the company have felt the need of a program of guidance for the boys of the community and it was only natural that they decided on Scouting.

A troop committee composed of the following, was appointed by the company and met last night with Karl F. Green, Scout Executive; H. F. McCartney, Youngstown; H. W. Feather, Poland; J. A. Ross, Poland, Charles H. Hawel, Hillsboro and Joseph Leiper, Edensburg.

This committee has chosen U. F. Masson, Hillsboro, to be Scoutmaster and William E. Akers, to be assistant.

This new troop, formally organized on the 29th anniversary of Scouting will be a part of the Bessemer District of the Lawrence County Council and will be the 39th troupe in the Council.

Franco Rejects Plebiscite Plan

Insurgent Leader Disapproves Suggestion Of Vote On Spain's Future

PEACE PROPOSALS BEING DISCUSSED

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Feb. 9.—An emphatic rejection by Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco of a plebiscite to determine Spain's future form of government today faced Premier Edouard Daladier as he prepared to meet with his cabinet on the question of recognizing Franco's regime.

The cabinet meeting was called on the suggestion of Senator Leon Berard who, on his return from Burgos, urged Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet to take immediate action to normalize France's relations with the Spanish Insurgents.

Government circles withheld a series of Franco's proposals regarding future Franco-Spanish relations, but well informed quarters declared that General Franco had rejected the idea of a plebiscite at the end of the civil war.

Foreign Troops To Leave

The Insurgent leader, on the other hand, was asserted to have accepted the main lines of two other proposals, offered as the peace terms of the Spanish government.

He assured the French and British government that all foreign troops will leave Spain as soon as the civil conflict is terminated. Moreover, accepting a ban on political reprisals, he was said to have promised to pardon all persons except those who had committed civil crimes.

After the cabinet discusses these questions, Berard will hasten back to Burgos to present the French government's attitude to Franco.

Immediate and full recognition of the Franco government was advocated by certain sections of the French press.

Two World's Fairs

Days Are Set Aside Honoring Organization At San Francisco And New York

Word has been received here by Mrs. F. E. Sowersby, the new commissioner of the Lawrence County Girl Scout Council, of the plans which are being mapped by the Girl Scout World's Fair Committee. The committee announces that Girl Scout Days have been designated for the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco on Saturday, May 13; and for the New York World's Fair on Saturday, June 10, which will be dedicated to the more than half a million Girl Scouts in this country.

Through the cooperation of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., of Oyster Bay, L. I., vice president of the Girl Scout National organization, the Girl Scouts will have a building of their own in the Children's World at the New York Fair. The building is to be a replica of "Our Chalet", the international meeting place of the Girl Scouts and Girl Guides in Switzerland. The Chalet will be in charge of a Girl Scout executive and will be a meeting place for all Girl Scouts who visit the fair.

International pageants will be given at each exposition on Girl Scout Day. Mrs. James F. Shaw, of New York City, chairman of the Girl Scout World's Fair committee informs Mrs. Sowersby.

Late this month members of the committee from New York will meet with west coast members of the World's Fair committee when final plans for Girl Scout Day at the Golden Gate Exposition will be announced.

TESTS FOR MENINGITIS

Yesterday I dealt with meningitis and now to diagnose it. It is odd that a doctor with experience gets so he can tell just by looking at a child if he has meningitis. Many a time I've gone into a sick room, and as soon as I took a look at the child's face I could tell what was the matter, for the victim nearly always had a peculiar worried expression on his face.

However, if it happens to be an infant that is suffering from the malady, diagnosis is much more difficult. The poor baby can't tell you that his head is aching, or that his back feels queer. He is irritable and cross from the infection that preceded the meningitis so that he cries when you handle him. Even bending his head down doesn't give you much information at least not in the early stages of the disease. The bony structures are softer and more pliable than in older children so that there isn't the same degree of rigidity.

As a rule, the presence of meningitis is first suspected by the doctor when the baby becomes unusually drowsy, with, possibly, twitching movements of the arms or legs or even generalized convulsions.

Nowadays science has developed tests that clinch a doctor's diagnosis. This is done by examining some of the fluid which lies between the two membranes that surround the brain. This fluid, which acts as a protective fluid around the brain, extends down in the spinal canal almost as far as the sacrum—near the hips.

This fluid can be obtained in two places—first by piercing the skull with a needle at a spot high up in the back of the neck; secondly, by inserting the needle in the spinal column in the lower back. The first method is highly technical and rather dangerous because you would be passing the needle into the brain. That might be all right for specialists in this kind of work, but we general practitioners prefer the

CAMP RUN

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Thompson entertained friends Friday evening in honor of Mr. Thompson on his birthday anniversary. Chinese checkers, dominoes and music were pastimes. Mrs. Thompson, assisted by Mrs. Charles Bowers served an oyster supper. Three birthday cakes graced the center of the table.

Those present were A. W. Sturgeon, daughter, Bertha, Mr. and son, and Mrs. Gabe Thompson.

This fluid can be obtained in two places—first by piercing the skull with a needle at a spot high up in the back of the neck; secondly, by inserting the needle in the spinal column in the lower back. The first method is highly technical and rather dangerous because you would be passing the needle into the brain. That might be all right for specialists in this kind of work, but we general practitioners prefer the method. The fluid is exactly the same in both cases, and as the risk is less, I, for one, prefer to use the location in the lower spine for the examination.

This technique is called a lumbar puncture, being made in the lumbar area. I have known parents who protested vigorously against having a needle thrust into their child's spinal column. Now that is a very silly attitude to take, so if a doctor advises a lumbar puncture for your child, don't hesitate to have it done. It very rarely causes any unpleasant after effects and it is done with a local anesthetic so it is almost completely painless. Besides it is the only certain way to diagnose meningitis.

When the puncture is made, the fluid rolls out of the needle and is collected in a sterile glass container. Ordinarily this fluid is clear, like water, and when examined under the microscope contains very few cells. But when the patient is suffering from meningitis, the fluid is cloudy in color and the microscope shows an increased number of cells.

It will only take a short time for the scientist to tell you whether or not the child has meningitis, and when the doctor knows definitely what he has to fight, then your child has a much better chance for recovery.

As a rule, the presence of meningitis is first suspected by the doctor when the baby becomes unusually drowsy, with, possibly, twitching movements of the arms or legs or even generalized convulsions.

Nowadays science has developed tests that clinch a doctor's diagnosis. This is done by examining some of the fluid which lies between the two membranes that surround the brain. This fluid, which acts as a protective fluid around the brain, extends down in the spinal canal almost as far as the sacrum—near the hips.

Mother And Five Children Trapped In Snowslide In Utah

Blizzard Sweeps Over Utah District

Passengers On Crack Passenger Train Are Marooned By Storm

TONS OF SNOW PLUNGE ON HOUSE

(International News Service)
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Feb. 9.—A mother and five of her children were feared to have been killed in a snowslide, and passengers of a crack passenger train were marooned, as a blizzard swept over Utah today.

The woman, Mrs. Stana Thomas, and the children were buried when tons of snow plunged onto two houses from a mountainside in the rear, according to meager reports today from Bingham Canyon, a town of a single street with mountains bordering each side, 20 miles south of Salt Lake City.

Eleven other persons caught in the slide dug themselves out, escaping without serious injury.

Scene of the tragedy was in the Highland Boy mining district, just above Bingham Canyon.

Mrs. Thomas was removed from the snowmass, but had not responded to treatment, according to the reports.

Although carried 50 feet by the slide, Nick, one of six children, managed to escape with his life.

"I don't know how I did it," he said, "but I managed to dig myself out before I choked to death."

The Sanpete Flyer, Denver & Rio Grande western passenger train, was reported to have left its tracks in Salt Creek Canyon near Nephi, 80 miles south of Salt Lake City, late last night. The train was reported still derailed and its passengers marooned in the storm early today.

The blizzard swept over Utah from the west yesterday, fell throughout the night and continued to rage today.

Kiwanis Head In Favor Of Scouting

Kiwanis Club Is Sponsor Of Boy Scout Troop 37 In New Castle

When asked for a statement from the Kiwanis club in regard to Boy Scouts, J. N. Kerr, president, prepared the following:

"National Boy Scout Week opened officially Wednesday, to commemorate 29 years of existence in America. This annual birthday celebration will last for one week and will be brought to a climax February 14. On this evening, scouts will attend a banquet at the Shelby club, Ellwood City.

"The Kiwanis club of New Castle sponsors Troop X-37, which has been formed for over 10 years and is made up of 25 local scouts. The troop meets every Monday night at Sinawik Cabin, under the able leadership of Dr. R. C. Lutz, scoutmaster, and O. MacFarland, assistant. The boys have their own treasury and from this they get annual registration and each scout receives Boys' Life Magazine.

Troop 37 has the greatest number of Boys' Life Magazines, the official scout organ, issued to its members than any troop in the city. Kiwanis is honored to sponsor such a fine troop and we salute you and wish you continued success on this, your birthday."

ANOTHER BIG "FEED"

New Galilee, Pa.
Feb. 7, 1939.

Editor News:

New Castle, Pa.

In an edition of The News I noticed you had published on the front page of the paper a list of food which was used at a banquet recently and thought it would be quite a task to prepare it.

If you think that was a task, what do you think the task would be to prepare the following:

7,162 pounds turkey.
95 bags Irish potatoes.
120 bushels sweet potatoe.
9,000 loaves bread.
4 barrels dill pickles.
25 dozen bunches celery.
600 gallons bulk milk.
19,000 half pint bottles.
100 pounds coffee.
450 gallons gravy.
500 pounds white sugar.
500 pounds brown sugar.
20,000 oranges.
20,000 apples.
20,000 all day suckers.
4,000 pounds peanuts.
450 pounds creamy butter.
500 pounds oleo.
1 bag salt.
15 pounds pepper.
12 pounds sage.

This was served to 22,000 guests in cones.

from the poor districts of the city of Cincinnati, O. on Thanksgiving dinner in 1937. It took 25 big city buses to take the children there. This institution has been serving a dinner to the poor for 37 years. I might also add that they clothed 2,500 of these children. If you would care to have the menu for the year of 1938, which is much larger, I can get it for you.

This is not some "paper talk" which I am giving you. I have visited this institution and have met some young folks who were students there.

Apostoli-Conn Battle Friday

Install Freddie Apostoli, Middleweight Champion, As Favorite To Defeat Conn

CONN WINNER IN PREVIOUS BATTLE

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The Fighting Irish, Begorra, low their own, and apparently they are about to encounter one of the saddest moments of recent times, for it seems that young Billy Conn, of Pittsburgh, with an ancestry from the Old Sod, is about to get his ears knock'd down by rough and tough Fred Apostoli, of San Francisco. The crowd is expected to approach Madison Square Garden's capacity of 16,000. That's the kind of fight everybody expects tomorrow night.

Despite the fact that Conn achieved a superbly executed upset triumph in a previous meeting between the two several weeks ago, the betting odds today were 9 to 5 on the coast Italian to get no worse than a decision in the 15-round rematch. By nature he is convincingly ruthless when anything is at stake, and by habit he doesn't let any one beat him twice. In fact, he doesn't let many of them beat him even once.

Fred Wants Revenge

Although Apostoli's middleweight title will not be on the line tomorrow night Conn being a light heavy, the former has something to fight for anyhow. All he needs for an excuse is this opportunity to square accounts with the broad-backed, slim-limbed six-foot youngster who currently is being rated as an almost certain contender for the heavyweight crown in a couple of years.

As to that, Apostoli will be the last middleweight Conn will fight. After this bout he will lay off for two or three months to build some brawn on his big frame, then he will campaign among light heavies until eventually he outgrows them and is forced in among the heavies where he is eager to be.

Dragons Win From Arena, Five-Three

Dragons defeated the Arena roller skating hockey team in The Arena last night by a score of 5 to 3. It was a good game. The Dragons will play at Vandegrift February 10. A double-header will be arranged for February 19 in the Neshannock rink.

WILL PLAY TONIGHT
The Lincoln Zephyrs will play the Polish Eagles tonight at the Lincoln-Garfield gym floor. The visitors hold a victory by a slight margin over the Zephyrs earlier in the year and the South Siders hope to avenge this evening. Dennis Ciccone is coach of the Zephyr quintet.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Practically every member of Pitt university's varsity football team of 1938 will be seen in action on Saturday night at Ellwood City. Said gridironologists extraordinary will not perform in their mackenings, but in basketball against the Shelby Social club, on the Shelby court, at 8:45 o'clock. These pugnacious experts, who thrilled thousands of persons, have been wooing 'em along the aisles on their barnstorming trip through the district. Walter Raskowski and Charles "Red" Fleming, New Castle lads, are among the members of the Panthers All-Star cage outfit. Marshall Goldberg of All-American fame, Chickering, Stebbins, Daddio, Petro, and the rest of the Dream Team comprise the roster.

Local sport shorts... The second annual Lawrence county basketball tournament will be sponsored by the New Castle Athletic association next month, officials of the newly formed organization informed the column proprietor today. Lawrence county's baseball men of the hour will congregate at Bessemer tonight for the annual county league banquet. That American league diamond movies will be one of the highlights... Unless he falters at the finish tape, Ray Bombyk, New Castle high center, looks like a cinch to top the individual high scoring honors in Section 3.

Sport tid-bits... The nine Loprinzi brothers, Phil, Sam, John, George, Dave, Tony, Gus, Doc and Frank of Portland, Ore., claim to be the "world's strongest family." They are all weight lifters... Benny Oosterbaan, Michigan university basketball coach, tabulates every shot taken by his hoopsters in games as well as during practices... Tommy Farr, my vote for hit parade No. 1, is returning to London with more than $100,000 for his fight battles here. He took plenty of punishment for that money... An announcement should be made any time now that Melio Bettina will take on Billy Conn, Pittsburgh's pride.

A few odd ones in the sports world... Glenn Taylor, a state representative, takes his sports too, too seriously. In fact, so deeply concerned is Taylor about football that he intends introducing a bill which will force West Virginia and Marshall college to tangle on the gridiron... When eight members of the Syracuse boxing team get their sheepskins they can make a little cabbage delivering lectures on how to lose weight. Recently the New York state mitten were forced to shear off 62 pounds in six days for their meet with Virginia. One lad knocked off 13 pounds... A flash back: Joe Engle, Chattanooga baseball manager, once traded a player for a 20-pound turkey.

Sports hamburger... The Chicago White Sox home attendance fell off below the 400,000 mark in 1938... Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, recently said that the Yanks could be bolstered a little in the pitching department... Long Island university's basketball team practices on the Brooklyn Pharmacy college floor which is about two-thirds the size of Madison Square Garden... John Borican, termed the greatest all-around athlete in the country, majoring in art at Columbia, is paying his way by "sign-painting."

Veteran Roper To Meet Louis

Jack Roper With 17 Years In Ring Behind Him At 36 Will Battle Joe Louis

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Proving life does begin at 36, "Black Jack" Roper has finally earned himself a world's championship match at an age when most prizefighters have long retired.

The veteran Roper has been signed to meet Joe Louis April 24, probably at Wrigley Field.

Los Angeles fight fans, although giving Roper little or no chance against Louis, hailed the coming fight with great satisfaction. They want to see Louis in action.

Seventeen years after his first professional fight, Roper will jump into the ring with the heavyweight title at stake. He won't have much chance of winning it—who has against the Brown Bomber—but taking into consideration his age and years of service, it is a rare accomplishment in fistiana.

National pro football league opens its twentieth annual executive meeting in Chicago.

Stock Market
Has Easy ToneMixed Tendencies Shown At Start Of Trading During MorningBy LESLIE GOULD

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The stock market developed an easy tone today on scattered selling attracted by yesterday's strength. Trading continued very quiet.

Mixed tendencies prevailed at the start, after which the list sagged further. Most price changes, however, were small.

There were a number of firm spots. Mail orders worked higher. Sears Roebuck was up almost a point.

United Aircraft advanced in the aviations on news of a duplicate order for motors and propellers for the new plane order North American Aviation received from England. Other aviations were dull.

Allied and Air Reduction improved in the chemical section and Standard of New Jersey was better in the oils. Rubber shares were steady.

In steels fractional losses ruled. General Motors started higher in the auto list and then eased. Chrysler was fractionally lower.

Coppers were unchanged to fractionally lower. Utilities gave ground fractionally.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Influence of successive waves of immigration in Oregon is seen in the characteristic names given towns and regions in the state that hark back to Indian, Spanish and British origin. Typical Indian names are Willamette, Calapooia and Klamath. Spanish explorers left Cape Arago, Cape Sebastian and Heceta Head. Vancouver, Mount Hood and Youngs Bay are typically British. The picturesque spots known as Dead Horse Creek, Pistol River, and Freezeout Saddle are definitely early American.

Garfield Plans To Return To New York Stage Soon

By MILTON HARKER
(Copyright, 1939 by International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—Resisting the lure of Hollywood gold, John Garfield, overnight star of "Four Daughters" and "They Made Me A Criminal," today announced definite plans for returning to New York before April 1 for a engagement. Garfield officially notified Warner Brothers he is taking advantage of his contract provision permitting him leave of absence for six months a year if he wishes to appear in a play.

In revealing his plans Garfield made it plain to Hollywood he does not intend to desert his "first and best love," the stage. He was adamant to pleas of studio executives that he remain here until his screen fame is entrenched more securely.

Garfield informed this reporter he is uncertain yet as to the play in which he will appear. His last New York engagements were in "Having A Wonderful Time" and "Golden Boy."

"A play opening in the late spring would be very unusual if it were not for the Worlds Fair which will bring hundreds of thousands of people to New York," John explained. "New York producers expect the best summer theatrical season in history."

Garfield leaves for New York as soon as he completes "The American Family," which goes into production tomorrow. This will have the same cast as "Four Daughters." Claude Rains, May Robson, the Lane Sisters, Gale Page, Jeffery Lynn, Dick Foran and Garfield.

It is not, however, a sequel for "Four Daughters." It is an entirely different story of an entirely different family. Warner Brothers has decided that the "Four Daughters" family is a perfect type of American family. That's all.

Hollywood's loveliest vision of the week is Gail Patrick in an old-fashioned gown for a ballroom sequence in Republic's "Man Of Conquest."

It's a gown of a century ago. It is pure white with hundreds upon hundreds of ruffles. It's perfect to set off Gail's black hair and brown eyes. Hand made in every detail under the personal supervision of Edith Head, Paramount's ace designer, the gown cost almost $3,000, which is a lot of money in ruffles.

Miss Patrick, native of Birmingham, Alabama, is getting real pleasure out of wearing it. Women always enjoy wearing the things they know are particularly becoming to them.

"I should have been born a hundred years ago," she frankly admits with a laugh. "I would just love to wear these kind of clothes all the time."

Taylor Plans To Continue Flying

Sixteen Year Old Youth Will Chalk Up Enough Hours For License

Paul Taylor, 16 years old, is the youngest airplane pilot in Lawrence county. Taylor soloed the training ship of Findley C. Wilson at the New Castle airport last Saturday.

According to Taylor, he will continue flying and chalk up enough flying hours to entitle him to government commercial license.

Sixteen years is the minimum age for pilots, set by the government, and Taylor is the youngest person ever to solo in this district.

In addition to being a pilot, Taylor is a full-fledged airplane mechanic. He is completely capable of dismantling and overhauling plane engines.

Science claims that there are no two things, natural or artificial, that can possibly be alike. It is believed that even such tiny things as atoms are each different from all the others.
